Dear Steve Rotheram

Subject: Ending the Postcode Lottery for Free School Meals

We are writing to urge you to champion increased access to Free School Meals for children in your region if you are re-elected the Mayor of Liverpool City Region.

Our new polling has found that 80% of people in the Liverpool City Region Combined Authority support expanding Free School Meals to more children, while 75% support expanding to all children.

We are sure that you will agree that it is distinctly unfair that while free, hot meals at lunchtime are available to all primary school children in London, and the same provision being rolled out across Wales and Scotland, children across Liverpool are not getting the same level of essential support.

The stark reality is that with the exception of London, children in England are only eligible for Free School Meals if their household income is below £7,400 per year after tax and benefits. As a result, 900,000 children fail to meet the eligibility criteria despite living in poverty. Many families are left with limited choices, and this means children end up relying on cheap, unhealthy food that is detrimental to their health or in some cases having to skip lunch completely.

Free School Meals can ensure that all school children can benefit from a hot nutritious meal at lunchtime. Good nutrition in childhood should be non-negotiable; without it, not only do health outcomes worsen, placing extra pressure on the NHS but so do children's life chances. 72% of those surveyed agree that it is a good use of local taxpayer money to expand Free School Meal provision given the health benefits.

In addition, Free School Meals can protect children from food insecurity, help them to learn and thrive academically, as well as help boost the local economy. Our survey also found 97% of respondents in Liverpool City Region Combined Authority agree that it is important for children to be well fed to do well in school. (See here for more on the numerous benefits of Free School Meals).

We would be incredibly grateful if we could therefore meet with you to discuss how to secure support from the Labour Party for expanding the provision of Free School Meals across the whole of England to ensure that every school child in Liverpool City Combined Authority gets a hot nutritious meal during the school day to boost their health and learning.
